

---

wedding ring

Posted by sheryl34 - 2009/06/21 11:22

---

Why is my wedding ring turning my finger colors all the sudden?

My wedding ring is turning my finger greenish black. It looks like tarnish, except that my ring is solid gold and I have worn it for 14 years. What is causing this? I have not been using any cleaners or different soap so I don't think it is from chemicals.

=====

Re:wedding ring

Posted by jones - 2009/10/09 14:36

---

Hello

Before ruthlessly making sacrifices to lower the price of an engagement ring, couples must consider what characteristics of the ring are most important to them. If a single solitaire diamond is the most important part of the ring, the couple will want to focus their budget on finding a quality diamond while minimizing accent stones or expensive metals that drive up the price.

- * Metal Type: gold, platinum, titanium, etc., as well as considering multi-metal rings.
- * Stone Type: Diamonds, semi-precious gems, pearls, etc., as well as its shape, size, and quality.
- * Setting: Prongs, flush, tension, or other settings as well as whether to include enhancers or wraps to upgrade the ring to a wedding set.
- * Ring Style: Art deco, contemporary, solitaires, etc.

Once the couple has decided which ring characteristics are the most important, they can begin to investigate different cost cutting tips to purchase the ring of their dreams without a price nightmare...

Wedding Videos London

=====

Re:wedding ring

Posted by cutecub00 - 2009/12/17 21:45

---

I like your pendant. Especially the dark ones. They have a beautiful stone on it. Do you have some more jewelry items of your design. I would like to see and may be to order some of them.

Vintage Pendants

=====

Re:wedding ring

Posted by sheryl - 2010/01/14 14:29

---

Wow That's a Great Collection Of Rings Which
You have shared here With us
I Found there really a Great Collection of Jewelleries..

Keep Sharing

London Hotels

=====