It is so nice to hear that some people still wait for their wedding night! There is no "normal". Since you've waited, you might end up having it a bit more often than people who have been intimate for years. Then again, you might enjoy just spending time with your new husband. Intimacy isn't limited to the bedroom. Realize that now and you will always have a loving marriage - you can be intimate with just a look, holdnig hands, cuddling, sharing your dreams and hopes for the future. If you "make love" like that all day long, when you do have sex it will be extra special, loving and exciting.
